GTower Hotel's One-stop
Destination for Corporate Travellers

Even as technology increasingly connects people and corporate organisations across the world, face to face meetings remain a crucial part of conducting business transactions. It is no wonder then that the Global Business Travel Association's annual report that tracks spending in 75 countries across 48 industries indicated that business travel generated about US$1.25tr (RM5.16tr) in 2015, and is projected to grow 6.9% and 6.0% this year and next respectively. In Malaysia, GTower Hotel Kuala Lumpur is strategically positioned to take advantage of and enhance the business travel industry in the country. Join the discussion on this topic at internationalbusinessreview.net

The 180-room boutique hotel—located proximate to a light rail transit (LRT) in Kuala Lumpur's business district intersection—was specifically designed for business travellers, with a wide range of class-leading offerings that ensure convenience and comfort before, during and after corporate transactions. From the essentials including WiFi hotspots across the hotel and IP telephone services, to the exclusives, such as ritzy hangout
